CONGRESS OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

CBE FOCUS

MARCH 2024

A state in denial? An unfortunate truth?

The SA Government has to realise that BEE policies in their current form have been counterproductive to the country's growth and its failure to address the unemployment pandemic has compounded the economic woes...

Former President Thabo Mbeki made explosive allegations about Eskom during a question-and-answer session at the Thabo Mbeki School of Public and International Affairs in August 2023, where he stated that the public utility's management deliberately caused an electricity crisis and load shedding.

Mbeki said that the new Eskom leadership deliberately did not maintain the power stations, which caused breakdowns and the return of rotational power cuts. He further asserted that black economic empowerment requirements were used deliberately to delay completing the Kusile power station unit 1.

He further questioned how an Indian company could complete the first unit in a much shorter time than expected when the previous contractors had not made much progress in seven years.

Due to their exceptional performance, the Indian company expected its contract to be extended to construct unit 2 and 3 and so on. Mbeki mentioned that Eskom was only prepared to extend the contract on condition that the Indian company gets a BEE partner.

Not understanding BEE requirements, the Indian company had around 50 engineers and technicians from India and requested that if Eskom had Black engineers to join the Indian team they would work together. Eskom said they did not have any engineers to join.

It is important to note that the Indian company was training around 150 engineers while the project was being undertaken. Because they could not reach an agreement on the BEE situation the contract of the Indian company was terminated. The result is that Kusile is still not completed till this day. Mbeki believes that this was a deliberate move by Eskom.

If one looks at the other failed State-owned Enterprises and start connecting the dots it is clear that these entities are run by a mafia- type operation. There is a concerted effort to ensure that the Government does not succeed in running the country. The tragedy is that Government has become a lame duck and fails to address the organised crime syndicates that operate under its watch.

The result of Eskom's failures has contributed to a volatile economic environment. South Africa's unemployment rate rose to 32.1% in the fourth quarter of 2023, surpassing pre-pandemic levels. According to Stats SA the increase in job losses was primarily driven by the formal sector, this underscores the need to address the issue of unemployment in the country.

The electricity crisis in South Africa started in 2007, so this must be the longest- lasting crisis in the world. Both Chile and Columbia have had electricity crisis, but once the political system realises that there is a shortage of electricity, decisions and actions are taken and three to five years down the line there is ample electricity, as in the case of both these countries.

Our Government has to realise that BEE policies in their current form have been counterproductive. We have a society that has engineering capacity, financial capacity, knowledge and skills to fix the electricity problems as well as other problems that we face as a country, but both ideology and corrupt officials are preventing us from allowing us to fix all of our issues.

This corruption and state capture is so far entrenched, that Government has to be proactive and realise that the state is fractured and weak and it has to start leveraging the capabilities of society, rather than continuing to rely only on state resources in these responsibilities.

Yusuf Moosajee
CBE Executive Director

Shortly after developing a new Strategic plan, CBE office bearers swung into action. President Ashfaq Dawood and his Deputy Yusuf Moosajee attended SONA.

Both were interviewed on the INX Prime expressing their thoughts about the state of the country. In a separate interview, Dawood shared a platform with Mr Ebrahim Patel, minister of Trade of Industries.

Meeting media people, DGs and a few prominent people formed part of the evening duties.

A week later, Moosajee was among the guests on INX prime venting their feelings about the 2024 Budget.

One of the five goals for 2024 is setting up a CBE Young Leaders Forum with team leader Shahista Thokan will launch end of April.

The next one is having a CBE footprint in KZN which has been scheduled for June.

A CBE team has been tasked with arranging training courses for young entrepreneurs., thereby guiding job-seekers into job creators.

Two trade events are also in the pipeline.

Finally, the board will be implementing new membership modules hoping to grow the CBE database.

CBE initiates Young Leaders Forum (YLF)

The Congress of Business and Economics (CBE)is pleased to announce the establishment of the CBE Young Leaders Forum (YLF) which aims to address the economic, political and social issues facing our youth in South Africa.

It will be a platform for young professionals, entrepreneurs and emerging leaders to share opinions, voice concerns and brainstorm sustainable solutions for the future of the country.

"This is also a step to identify and develop the new generation as part of the succession plan within the CBE. They will be tasked with continuing and expanding on the good work of the organization from the past two generations to continue the CBE legacy that has been very much a part of South Africa's struggle against apartheid and in the current milieu the societal issues plaguing our democracy," said CBE President Ashfaq Dawood.

Fully endorsing this objective, YLF leader Shahista Thokan said the CBE would mentor the youth members and equip them with the necessary skills and insights to become better leaders in SA and amid the ever-accelerating disruptive changes globally, by maintaining a focus on what is within their control.

"As an activist body, we must reflect on the current SA scenario and acknowledge that the young generation from minority communities are not participating in the political and community arena. Some of them have said that they are disillusioned with government and others even refuse to vote, citing their despondency for their apathy.

"But there is hope on the horizon with the recent news from the IEC about the large number of youth who took advantage of the registration weekends ahead of the elections in May.

"To paraphrase the classics view 'nothing about us without us", the YLF members will be given a platform not just to air their views, but to also serve as problem-solvers and contribute to the country's growth," Thokan said.

Involvement will be preceded by an induction which among others will look at the CBE's history during the struggles and its successful campaigns, which many youth might not even be aware of.

"Community-based activism serves as a key awareness and consciousness-raising approach that supports youth to recognize, negotiate and challenge the current inequalities and shortcomings in their lives," Thokan added.

"The YLF intends to provide a space for youth discussions and reflections on contemporary issues in order to to encourage and give a voice to their peers," said CBE Executive Director Yusuf Moosajee.

To seize this opportunity for a limited number of passionate, patriotic and ambitious young adults, contact Mrs. Shahista Thokan for membership details to email CV to sha.thokan@gmail.com or call her on 072 565 1265.

Why CBE supports Pandor's appeal to teach young entrepreneurs

"Let's build our country," was the impassioned plea to those she called "the best business teachers" by Naledi Pandor, Minister of International Relations while addressing a Palestine fund raiser in Tshwane recently,

Here is the relevant part of her address that evening to a rapt audience in the packed hall.

"I know here in Erasmia and Laudium there are significant businesspeople. I am going to ask you. Join your country in building your country's economy. Lots of you are investing all over the world and you are not investing in your country, and we need it desperately.

"We need to create jobs. We need to help young people to understand that they should not just look for jobs. And what better teachers than our business community who are among the best businesspeople in South Africa. Let's contribute to building our country." These words drew applause and nodding of heads.

The CBE totally endorses the Minister's appeal to a sector in a minority community who have kept afloat their small and big businesses - and professions - despite the many BEE laws working against them.

At its recent two-year Strategic Planning event, the CBE established an Entrepreneur Development (ED) sub-committee and appointed a team of experienced businessmen and accountants to lead the project.

There are several instruments that SMMEs and corporates can use to capacitate the young generation, for example CSI funds, Skills Development Levies, running in-house training programmes and lastly Enterprise and Supplier Development (ESD).

If the minority groups in SA have a desire to remain relevant, influential and on the right side of history, they must unite and harness all their resources – now more than ever – by investing in training and human development projects.

Like the minister said – we are the best business teachers.

CBE calls on our business community to support our initiative. History will record our attempts to bring about change in the business environment.

The CBE will continue lobbying Government for appropriate legislation mitigating against repressive policies that have an impact on growth, job creation and access to tertiary education.

The current BEE legislation has a direct impact on the community that Minister Pandor addressed.

Indian entrepreneurs are among the best in the world: Naspers CEO

FAKIR HASSEN

Indian entrepreneurs are among the best in the world, according to Phuti Mahanyele, the CEO of South African global technology investment group, which has huge investments in India as well.

Mahanyele was speaking at an event jointly hosted by the Consulate General of India, the India Business Forum, and the Johannesburg Indian Women's Association, an organisation of spouses of Indian diplomats and expats working in South Africa which engages in charitable projects, to present awards to ten women in different fields on International Women's Day on 8 March 2024.

"We believe that Indian entrepreneurs are among the best in the world, with exceptional ability to build products at scale and at value," Mahanyele said, adding that she had observed during a visit to Delhi in November last year how there had been a significant focus on inclusion and development in India.

"My colleagues and I met with Invest India and found that 50 per cent of Invest India's leadership is made up of women. It was also good to know that India has reached a historic milestone when its GDP surpassed four trillion dollars in November last year.

"The government has also announced the establishment of 30 Skills India centres, which are providing access to AI, robotics coding, etc. And then there is the rollout of some of India's seed funding , which is continuing to help startups. The last time that I checked, they already had a thousand startups that had benefited from this programme since 2021," Mahanyele said.

The executive, who heads one of the largest companies listed on the Johannesburg Securities Exchange, said one of the highlights for her was learning that India ranks as the second out of 40 countries for social support for women entrepreneurs.

Turning to her company's businesses in India, Mahanyele said their food delivery business in India, called Swiggy, is valued at over eight billion dollars.

"We also have our payment and fintech business PayU in India, which is valued at around five billion dollars. Both businesses are doing exceptionally well. We are backing and investing more into those businesses because we believe in the economy of India," Mahanyele said.

She said that India as a market was something of great importance to Naspers as a group.

"India and South Africa share a long history and we at Naspers are very happy to have been able to replicate that through our investments and the history of our investments in India. India is a high focus country and a lot is being done on tech and so we as a tech business are heavily invested in India.

"India and South Africa are at the forefront of technological advancement and digital transformation and jointly harnessing the power of technology. We can drive efficiencies and create new areas for businesses across our economies," she said.

But Mahanyele also cautioned that technological advancement and digital transformation should not leave women behind.

"In as much as I speak of the wonderful things that our two countries are doing; we are also aware of the fact that gender-based violence is pervasive in both nations. But I'm also glad at the fact that the leaders of both of these countries, being Prime Minister Modi and President Cyril Ramaphosa, are both at the forefront of ensuring that we can deal with gender-based violence very effectively.

Mahanyele concluded with advice from Indra Nooyi, who was president of Pepsico for many years, who she said had been a great inspiration to her.

"(Nooyi) used to speak about the importance of us always remembering the importance of ensuring that we are pulling people forward. That it is not just about remaining in our roles; but that within our roles t we are making sure that we are bringing others forward," Mahanyele said.

Rich countries and mega rich called out at Davos 2024

Besides being told by activists that their control of the world is harming humanity, they realized the urgency of global cooperation to foster sustainable, inclusive economic growth amidst diverging economic landscapes and evolving global tensions.

The World Economic Forum Annual Meeting in Davos for 2024 revolved around critical themes pertinent to the current global situation, focusing on rebuilding trust in a period marked by sustained instability and uncertainty.

This atmosphere, described as a "permacrisis," arises from the lingering effects of the COVID-19 pandemic and the ongoing conflict in Ukraine and Palestine.

Discussions at the event encompassed a range of pressing issues, including addressing geopolitical challenges, fostering job creation and economic growth in the new era, leveraging artificial intelligence for social benefit, and developing comprehensive strategies for climate change, nature, and energy concerns.

A significant takeaway from Davos 2024 was the recognition of the emergence of a new economic reality. This reality has been shaped by extraordinary global disruptions experienced over the past few years.

The focus was on building resilience in response to this new economic landscape, emphasising the need for strategies that encompass both economic and environmental sustainability.

Another critical aspect of the Davos 2024 discussions was the mixed growth outlook for the global economy amid ongoing challenges. Over half of the chief economists surveyed by the World Economic Forum (56 percent) anticipate a downturn in the global economy in 2024.

This outlook echoes predictions from the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which forecasted a slight dip in global growth to 2.9 percent in 2024, down from 3 percent in 2023. The factors influencing this downturn include tight financial conditions, geopolitical strife, and the rapid evolution of generative artificial intelligence.

The economic outlook varied across regions, with cautious optimism maintained in South Asia, East Asia and the Pacific. In contrast, Europe's economic outlook has deteriorated significantly, with most respondents expecting weak growth.

Similarly, more subdued growth expectations were observed for the United States, the Middle East, and North Africa.

On a more positive note, there was an uptick in growth expectations for Latin America, the Caribbean, sub-Saharan Africa, and Central Asia, although the consensus still leans towards moderate growth in these regions.

Emerging trends highlighted in the report included the role of industrial policies in shaping economic futures and the pivotal influence of generative AI as a driver of productivity, particularly in high-income economies.

The discussions at Davos 2024 underscored the complex and interconnected nature of the global economy and the critical need for resilience and sustainability in navigating these challenges.

The forum highlighted the urgency of global cooperation to foster sustainable, inclusive economic growth amidst these diverging economic landscapes and evolving global tensions

Who Owns the World?" A Small Group of Big Money

"Who Owns the World" is the title of an extraordinary documentary, describing how Big-Big Money controls not only every aspect of your life, but has a stranglehold on every government, the political UN body, as well as every UN agency, and all industries and services of this globe.

These largest investors are BlackRock, Vanguard, and State Street. These same investment groups also control over 90% of the world's major media.

Even Rupert Murdoch's media empire is majority owned by BlackRock / Vanguard. It is therefore no miracle that hardly any news penetrates the walls of secrecy about these major shareholders of every aspect of human life and life-related activities and businesses.

They control politicians, geopolitics and military deployments

It is a monopoly that can literally not be opposed by traditional means. They have also invented the "rules-based order" — overruling every international and national law at their will.

They know no limits, no ethics and adhere to no human or human rights standard. POWER is them.

The two most powerful investors and investment managers are BlackRock and Vanguard. They are closely linked, to the point where their management is largely interchangeable. Vanguard is BlackRock's largest shareholder, meaning that they control BlackRock.

Though Vanguard is not transparent about its own shareholders, Vanguard is owned by the richest families on earth.

Vanguard has been created to hide their investments and money transactions.

Through non-profit organizations, like the Rockefeller Foundation, Gates Foundation, Rothschild Foundation, JPMorgan Foundation, Clinton Foundation, Bush Foundation, and Albert DuPont Charity Trust and so on, billions of "donation" money is transferred tax-free to Vanguard, a shield for their potentially criminal transactions and funding.

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation is the largest funder of WHO. It also controls GAVI, the vaxx-alliance – and is therefore the most influential organization over human health and death.

These same people, alias Foundations, also own Blackrock – which is why BlackRock and Vanguard are interchangeable or can act as one, if it is to their advantage.

According to Bloomberg, by 2028, the two will own / manage some 20 trillion dollars – about a fifth of the world's current GDP.

If joined by State Street, as is often the case, the world's fourth largest investment manager, you may add another US$ 3 to US$ 4 trillion of managed assets. Sometimes they are joined by Berkshire Hathaway, Citi Bank, Bank of America, Chase & Co, Goldman Sachs… adding another few trillion of managed assets to their pie.

However, these second or third ranking financial institutions, in turn, are also owned by BlackRock and Vanguard. One might call it an omnipotent vicious circle from which it is almost impossible to escape.

See this one-hour Rumble-video for more details and network of ownership that literally rules the world:

With that power they can leverage every country in the world, every institution, and every corporation – as they are the largest shareholders of the industrial, military, service and infrastructure investment machine that makes the world turn.

Who Owns the World?

Please allow just a little detour to Gaza, where the Zionist racist massacre of an entire population has been going on as today for 141 days.

Some 30,000 Palestinian have been killed; 70% children and women. Children and women are the prime targets, because children are the next generation and women are the bearer of the next generation – they must be eliminated by the supremacist Zionists.

The horror and inhumanity have no words, cannot be appropriately described with our human vocabulary: bombs have liquidated an entire family.

The mutilated body of a seven-year-old girl, Sidra, is hanging from a wall. Hind, a six-year-old girl, was mercilessly killed by Israeli armed forces, as she was begging for help from an ambulance, surrounded by the cadavers of her killed family. As illustrated by "Hildebrandt", a Peruvian, renowned non-mainstream news media (23 February 2024).

Tell me, please, are these all-powerful financial conglomerates not powerful enough to stop this massacre at once?

They hold entire nations hostage to do their bidding, but they cannot stop Israel, the Zionists behind the State of Israel, from their merciless atrocious killing, murder, massacre of an entire population?

Are they powerful enough to prevent the United States, their Anglo-Saxon and European puppet governments from halting their money, weapon, and "moral" support of the Zionist onslaught? Or is their power behind the US veto breaking the UN Security Council's quest for a ceasefire in Gaza?

In any case, by not using their power to stop the Zionist war against Palestine, to stop any war, any killing in the world, are they not complicit in the mass murders in Gaza and around the world by not ending them?

They could. Why are they not doing it?

They are drunk with Power – and as we know, power and money have been derailing humanity for a long time, but now the extent of shame and barbarism has reached a level, where our civilization risks to disappear; and where there is no way to escape, not the traditional ways.

BlackRock / Vanguard are also major shareholders in the secondary and tertiary asset management and banking institutions. So, they control the managed investments of, say, Goldman Sachs, Bank of America, City, Chase, Morgan-Stanley – you name it.

If you invest, for example, in a food conglomerate, like Nestlé, Unilever, PepsiCo, most have no idea that they invest in BlackRock / Vanguard, major shareholders of these food corporations, and by doing so, they also invest in the worldwide military industrial (killing) complex which is too is controlled by BlackRock / Vanguard.

BlackRock / Vanguard / State Street are also the powers behind the power – most often invisible.

For example, BlackRock has close links with many Central Banks, especially with the Federal Reserve. They lend money to the FED – and are a principal adviser to the FED and most likely to other central banks, including they advise on computer systems they use and which connects them.

BlackRock, is by far the largest influencer and donor, or "partner", as they prefer to call themselves, therefore, also "commander", of the World Economic Forum (WEF), the entire UN system, its political arm, as well as its sub-agencies and by proxy, also the World Health Organization (WHO), and not to forget GAVI, the Vaccination Association, physically located just next door to WHO – and by further extension, Big-Pharma, the pharma industry.

Together with their faithful think-alike executer of WEF's mandates, Mr. Klaus Schwab, as well as the multibillionaires, such as the Gates's, Rockefeller's, Soros's of this world, one can easily deduct, they – BlackRock and Co. – control our lives – health and death.

Through their world-domineering ownership of all that moves, shakes, and produces, they are globalists, eugenists and "green-agenda" eccentrics, pushing the climate change lie – come hell or high water. Costs in money and lives do not matter.

Were these financial monsters behind the covid-plandemic idea? What a question!

Their agenda – eugenist, destruction of current economic structures to rebuild according to this small elite's criteria – is clearly spelled out by the Club of Rome's (CoR) "Limits to Growth" (1972), and the follow-on Report "The First Global Revolution" (1991) which claims early on in its text that annihilation of the current system is a MUST, to rebuild, bringing the fundamental changes in favor of the elite with eugenics and absolute control always in the fore.

Is the CoR at the service of the global financial empire? After all, the same powers are behind both.

Not by coincidence, the Rockefeller Group is the inventor of the Club of Rome, today comfortably seated, tax free and with full diplomatic immunity, in Switzerland.

The fake Covid pandemic is the first building block for this all-destructive mechanism, the "cornerstone" of destruction, so to speak.

The lockdowns, the inhuman, totally invalid PCR tests, the fear-mongering – the invented covid-death rates – were very effective in manipulating people, but also in laying the groundwork for the overall annihilation of our society and even civilization, in shifting assets from the bottom to the top and in abolishing the world economy that carries our civilization.

Once the people were shivering from fear, the deadly "vaxxes" were introduced.

Lo and behold, by now, despite ever-louder opposition – about 5.7 billion people – out of the world's 8 billion (more than 70%) have received at least one jab and most got 2 or 3 injections.

These poisonous injections are in the human bodies and may most likely react sooner or later. According to Mike Yeadon, former VP and Chief scientist of Pfizer, over the next three to ten years, the death toll will increase probably drastically, but most people will not link it to the "vaxxes" — either because they have been indoctrinated that deaths are due to long or late covid, or because they suffer from and live in cognitive dissonance.

Big Money to own and control it all, must drastically reduce world population. This is propagated by the WEF, and as of this day by the CoR

WEF's Chairman, Klaus Schwab's top advisor, Israeli Professor, Yuval Noah Harari, asks openly what to do with the "useless eaters" when their "raison d'être" has been replaced by Artificial Intelligence (AI). Giving them a base salary for (temporary) survival, getting them hooked on violent video games to prep them for the future, and to let them gradually "disappear"?

In addition to severe human injuries and death, the vaxxes also reduce male and female fertility, cause miscarriages, highly aggressive and lethal turbo cancers, and of course, myocarditis and sudden deaths.

Overall excess mortality in the west is as high as 20% in some countries. In the UK, where excess deaths are alarming the common public, they have started modifying statistics to erase surplus mortality.

In parallel, mostly funded by the Soros Open Society Foundation, the Woke movement is ravaging the western world, with promotion of sex changes and the infamous "multi-letter" agenda — LGBTQIA+ = Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Intersex, and Asexual. WOW! This is promoted in schools, in some countries with strict bans of parents' interference in their children's, as young as 11 years, wishes for sex-change.

This agenda reduces birth rates further.

Endless wars create chaos, confusion, desperation and, of course, also deaths.

The Money Masters have succeeded in creating the first building blocks. WHO may soon become the most powerful health (life and death) tyranny on earth, if the infamous Pandemic Treaty and the harshly modified International Health Regulations (IHR) are approved at the upcoming World Health Assembly (WHA) in May 2024.

Knowing who is in possession and control of WHO and the WHA, the world is called upon to exit WHO.

Internationally renowned Dr. Peter McCullough testified in the European Parliament in Strasbourg about the social and economic consequences of covid vaxxes, as well as the potentially impending WHO tyranny – concluding with a call on the EU and the US and the rest of the world to exit WHO..

To retake the world, by We the People, leaving BlackRock, Vanguard & Co. behind, exiting the UN system and WHO – would be the next step. Most important, and possibly the only way defeating this money power, is withdrawing from the current societal system and start afresh.

Small communal economies – as far away as possible from any digitization – with a dynamic cooperation among themselves, evolving naturally and on a higher spiritual level than the low vibrating one which is typical for our material world and the present strive for ever more material goods.

"Only when we are divided, can the elite retain its power over us."

"The Wound is the Place, where the Light enters You." — The great Sufi poet, Rumi

Their weapons are blackmail and fear.

WE MUST NOT FEAR.

We are the 99%.

We can do it.

And we MUST do it for survival of humanity.
